Evelyn Anastasiou (b. 1981) studied at the Superior School of Fine Arts of Montpellier in France. In 2009 she represented Cyprus at the Biennale of Young Artists from Europe and the Mediterranean in Skopje where she was awarded for the Res Artis. Worldwide Network of Artist Residencies. Soon after, she had her first solo exhibition at Frans Masereel Centre in Belgium, followed by group and solo exhibitions in Cyprus and abroad. She has participated in residencies in Austria, Belgium and France.

Using musical symbols and musical language in all its variations, my work incorporates sound without voice. Everything speaks and sings but is not heard. Everything seems to be mute. A silent musical.
